

THE MAINSTREET TRADING COMPANY

BOOKS, CAFÉ, DELI & HOME

In a year where politics have dominated the news, who better to hear from than one of the UK's least divisive political figures. We are delighted to announce that Alan Johnson will be with us on Sat 8th October to discuss the third volume in his award-winning memoirs, The Long and Winding Road.

ALAN JOHNSON

This is no self-aggrandizing memoir of Westminster politicking and skulduggery. Supporting the struggle of his constituents for justice comes more naturally to Alan than do the byzantine complexities of Parliamentary procedure.

In The Long and Winding Road, Alan's characteristic honesty and authenticity shine through every word. His book takes you into a world which is at once familiar and strange: this is politics as you've never seen it before...

PRAISE FOR This Boy and Please, Mister Postman:

“The best political testament I have ever read” New Statesman

“This boy can write... He is a natural.” The Spectator
